

This graph shows a global average of reliable tide gauge data from 1870 to 2000 with the new satellite altimetry data superimposed on the end. There has been a clear acceleration in the rate of sea level rise since 1990. Current tide gauge data and sea-level-rise numbers from satellites correspond closely. (Photo courtesy of NOAA)